COLLECTION OVERVIEW: ACADEMIC COMPLETE

ebrary's Academic Complete collection includes all of our subject-specific academic database collection in Business & Economics, Computers, Technology & Engineering, Humanities, Life & Physical Sciences and Social & Behavioral Sciences. This collection also features a rich database of more than 1,050 maps and additional titles in academic subject areas ranging from engineering to general reference.

Our Business & Economics collection boasts over 2,500 titles, from over 40 publishers—nearly three quarters of which were published within the past two years. The range of the list supports course work at the undergraduate as well as post-graduate level, with category strengths in business administration, management, economic history and theory, global business and economic development, and business practice.

ebrary's Computers, Technology & Engineering collection features more than 1,000 titles, over 67% of which were published in 2000 or later. This collection is especially strong in computing programming, networking and applications technology, telecommunications and engineering, and IT case studies in business.

With more than 5,000 titles, ebrary's Humanities collection covers a vast range of subjects including history, language, and linguistics, literature and literary criticism, and philosophy. The history category alone contains nearly 1,000 titles, with strengths in Ancient, Europe, Great Britain, and U.S. history.

ebrary's Life & Physical Sciences collection includes over 1,000 titles and covers all fields in natural and physical sciences. Category strengths include agriculture and food science, environmental science, math and statistics, and medicine.

Our Social & Behavioral Sciences collection boasts over 3,000 titles and spans the full range of social science disciplines. This collection is particularly strong in education, political science, psychology, and sociology.

For more information, please see our subject-specific database collection product sheets. For a complete title list, please contact an ebrary sales representative.
