AN IDEAL COLLECTION FOR PUBLIC LIBRARIES

ebrary's General Interest collection is separate and distinct from the rest of its database collections, which are primarily for academic or corporate libraries. The General Interest collection is most suitable to a public library patron, and is wide-ranging in its holdings.

From career guides, personal finance, and current topics in the business world, to popular biography, education, health, history, law, travel and self-help, a wealth of topics are covered in over 2,000 books in this collection. The classics make up a core component of the General Interest collection. From a selection of the acclaimed Penguin Classics® and Modern Library® versions to the complete works of Aristotle, Plato, and Shakespeare from other publishers, an archive of works by past masters are available in this collection.
