DATABASE: ARTS & LITERATURE

TITLE: Turner: A Life

AUTHOR: Hamilton, James

PUBLISHER: Random House, Incorporated

DATE: 2003

This first U.S. edition of a work published in 1997 in the U.K. is a fine example of biography and art history. Turner scholar Hamilton (Turner and the Scientists) has put to good use newly discovered material, which helps to dispel some myths and reveal more about the private life the artist kept hidden from his public. The origins and subtexts of many of Turner's most important paintings are examined with a fresh insight, and although the suppositions may be the author's own, they do serve as a stimulus to further inquiry...

DATABASE: HISTORY

TITLE: The Two Faces of Islam: The House of Sa'ud from Tradition to Terror

AUTHOR: Schwartz, Stephen

PUBLISHER: Doubleday

DATE: 2002

Schwartz challenges President Bush's "axis of terror." "The real exporters of international Islamic extremism and terror," he says, are not Iraq or Iran, but an American ally: the Saudis. Saudi Arabia is dominated by Wahhabism, which journalist Schwartz (Kosovo: Background to a War) labels a "fascistic" cult. And the West, he goes on, has "nurtured this serpent in [its] very bosom" by supporting the Saudis in the belief that they were "moderate"...

DATABASE: PHILOSOPHY, RELIGION
& SPIRITUALITY

TITLE: Life & Practice in the Early Church: A Documentary Reader

AUTHOR: McKinion, Steven A.

Warburton, Nigel

PUBLISHER: New York University Press

DATE: 2001

Life and Practice in the Early Church brings together a range of primary texts from the church's first five centuries to demonstrate how early Christians practiced their faith. Rather than focusing on theology, these original documents shed light on how early believers "did church," addressing such practical questions as, how did the church administer baptism? How were sermons delivered? How did the early church carry out its missions endeavors?...
