ebrary Signs 14 New Publishing Partners

August 25, 2008 – Palo Alto, CA – ebrary® (www.ebrary.com), a leading provider of e-content services and technology, today announced that it is greatly enhancing its growing selection of more than 170,000 titles with e-books and other authoritative materials from more than 14 new publishing partners. ebrary now has now secured partnerships with more than 300 of the world’s leading publishers of scholarly, STM, trade, and reference content.

“We are extremely excited to welcome these new publishing partners, who will provide ebrary with valuable and diverse content under both subscription and perpetual access models,” said Leslie Lees, ebrary’s Vice President of Strategic Market Development. “Our customers and their patrons will greatly benefit through the addition of these high-value, relevant titles in multiple subject areas.”

ebrary’s new publishing partners include the following:

- Ashgate Publishing, a leading independent publisher committed to providing the library market with the finest academic scholarship. Each year Ashgate publishes more than 700 new books, representing the best academic research in humanities, social sciences, and professional business practices from around the world.
- Continuum Books, an academic and trade publisher specializing in the humanities and publishing approximately 500 new titles per year. By the end of 2008, Continuum will have well over 1,000 e-books available in literary studies, philosophy, education, linguistics, theology, and biblical studies and plans to publish many more from its active backlist of 6,000 titles.

- CQ Press, a leading publisher of books, directories, subscriptions, and web products on American politics, federal and state government, American institutions, campaigns and elections, current events, and world affairs. Its content is known for its objectivity, breadth and depth of coverage, and high standards of journalistic and editorial excellence. CQ Press is a division of SAGE Publications.
- Georgetown University Press, a publisher of scholarly books and journals for a diverse, worldwide readership. Georgetown University Press publishes peer-reviewed works of academic distinction in five subjects: bioethics; international affairs & human rights; languages and linguistics; political science, public policy and public management; and religion and ethics.
- The University of Washington Press, the book publishing arm of the University of Washington. The Press publishes approximately 60 new titles each year, and has distinguished lists in Asian studies, anthropology, Western history and biography, environmental studies, and natural history. The Press is recognized as the foremost publisher in the country on the art and culture of the Northwest Coast Indians and Alaskan Eskimos, and as a leader in the publication of materials dealing with the Asian American experience.
- The University of Alberta Press, a publisher of monographs and creative nonfiction, as well as literary works that showcase Canadian culture, including fiction, poetry and literary criticism. Their academic list includes publications on the Canadian west and north, Canadian history, native studies, regional topics, biography, health sciences, natural history, the environment, travel narratives, trade and international relations, and reference books.
- The University Press of Kentucky, a publisher of academic books of high scholarly merit in a variety of fields, and books about the history and culture of Kentucky, the Ohio Valley region, the Upper South, and Appalachia.
- McFarland & Co., a leading independent publisher of comprehensive reference and other scholarly works with more than 300 new titles annually. Among libraries, they are known for their rock-solid but interesting and eclectic list, including serious treatments of such popular topics as film, baseball, mystery, science fiction, superheroes and automotive history.
- The International Monetary Fund, an intergovernmental organization created in 1945 to help promote the health of the world economy through international monetary cooperation. Titles available through ebrary will include a selection of IMF Country Reports, Regional Reports, Working Papers, and books on all aspects of the global economy.
- Grey House Publishing, a publisher of authoritative reference works and directories covering the fields of business, history, general reference, statistics, demographics, health, and education.

- The Policy Press, the specialist academic publisher of books, reports, and journals on social and public policy and social issues in the UK, with an expanding list of titles of interest to international libraries. Many titles are multi and inter-disciplinary. The Policy Press is based at the University of Bristol.
- Templeton Foundation Press, a publisher of more than 100 books on topics including altruism, business and spirituality, character development, church history, forgiveness, inspirational virtues, psychology, public policy, science and religion, and spirituality and health.
- Smithers Rapra, a major publisher of technical and market information on all aspects of plastics, rubber, and polymer-based composite materials. With a worldwide readership in industry and academia, Smithers Rapra publications encompass polymer science, practical processing technology, and properties and applications of polymeric materials.
- Math Solutions, a provider of on-site professional development in school districts across the country and publisher of more than 80 books and resources designed for college education students and elementary education math teachers.
